

How do Australian English mothers & fathers talk to their babies?

We are currently recruiting mothers, fathers and their infants who want to help us answer this question!

What does the study involve?

- Play and talk with your child in a child-friendly lab setting - you are with your child the whole time
- Casual conversation and partake in a fun activity with your partner
- Audio and visual recordings of your interactions
- The total visit takes approximately 1.5 hours
- 2 x $20 gift card reimbursement for participation

Can I take part?

- ✓ Both mother and father are Australian English speakers
- ✓ Your child is aged 6-12 months old
- ✓ Your child is developing typically
- ✓ Neither you nor your child have a (history of) speech/language delay
- ✓ Neither you nor your child have a (history of) hearing impairment

The study will take place at Macquarie University in the Australian Hearing Hub. For more information or to register your interest in participating, please contact Elise Tobin at elise.tobin@hdr.mq.edu.au.

A chance to spend quality time with your family and provide a valuable contribution to research!
